- Oil held gains near the highest in more than three weeks as key refineries and pipelines restarted operations following shutdowns, reviving crude demand in the heart of the U.S. energy sector. Futures were little changed after closing 2.9% higher Tuesday.
- Gold holds near highest in a year as Russia joins China in rejecting U.S. calls for more sanctions on North Korea, and U.S. central bank officials signal they aren't in a hurry to raise interest rates. Bullion for immediate delivery +0.2% to $1,342.55/oz.
- Spot silver little changed at $17.8820/oz.
- Platinum little changed at $1,005.82/oz.
- Palladium +0.2% to $962.10/oz.
- Zinc leads slump in metals as investors turn cautious on rally that took a gauge of LME futures to its highest in three years earlier in week. Zinc -1.2% to $3,102/ton on LME after hitting highest close in a decade on Monday.
- Iron ore for Jan. -1.8% to 565.5 yuan/ton on DCE.

South Africa

- The All Share index had a fairly lacklustre day as investors shrugged off threats by North Korea and South Africa's positive GDP print but chose to rather focus on the three FOMC members speaking on the day. The All Share index eventually ended the day 0.30% lower.
- The gold mining sector led the downside with the likes of AngloGold and Harmony declining 2.67% and 3.23% respectively.
- On corporate news, WBHO released its results for the year ended 30 June 2017 showing a marginal increase in EPS while the dividend was increased by 5.7% versus the previous comparable period. Rhodes Food Group dropped 15.35% on the day after a poor trading statement saying that they expect headline earnings to decrease between 17% and 27%.
- Value traded at 5pm was around R20bn with the currency at R12.89c vs. the USD at the close.

UK/Europe

- European markets were weaker following some dovish comments from some FED governors weakening the US dollar.
- On the economic data front, Markit German Services PMI came in marginally higher at 53.5 index points.
- The Stoxx 50 was down 0.28% with the likes of Orange SA and Deutsche Bank AG retreating 2.00% and 1.89% respectively

USA

- US markets closed in negative territory as investors accessed tensions between the US and North Korea after the long weekend.
- The Dow Jones and S&P 500 were down 1.07% and 0.76% respectively with financial stocks leading the downside.
- On the economic data front, US Factory Orders dropped 3.3% in July, this was in line with expectations while Durable Goods Orders slipping 6.8% which was well below forecasts.

Asia

- Asian markets are weaker this morning following their US counterparts lower on geopolitics and weaker than expected economic data out of the US.
- The Hang Seng is down 1.03% while the Nikkei has retreated 0.20%
- The Australian ASX is down 0.40% on the back of weaker than expected GDP data which showed a 1.8% (y/y) increase for the 2Q.

US

- Nondefense capital goods orders excluding aircraft surged 1% m/m in July, from 0.4% previously – this is an indication of better business spending and capital investment in the US.
- Factory orders excluding transportation goods rose 0.5% m/m, from 0.1% previously – better global demand and shipments have been key drivers of manufacturing activity, along with recovering consumer spending

Synopsis: A key dilemma faced by the Fed is the fact that the labour market at full employment has not translated in wage inflation and upside inflationary pressures. We maintain the consensus view that Balance sheet normalisation will begin this month, with a further rate hike in December if economic data holds up well.

Europe

- Eurozone retail sales growth eased to 2.6% y/y in July, from 3.3% previously, in line with consensus. Lower sales of food and drink, electrical goods and furniture, medicine, and fuel weighed on total sales in July.
- In contrast, sales of clothing and non-food products accelerated. Domestic demand however, remains strong in the Eurozone and will likely remain the driver of economic growth over the medium term

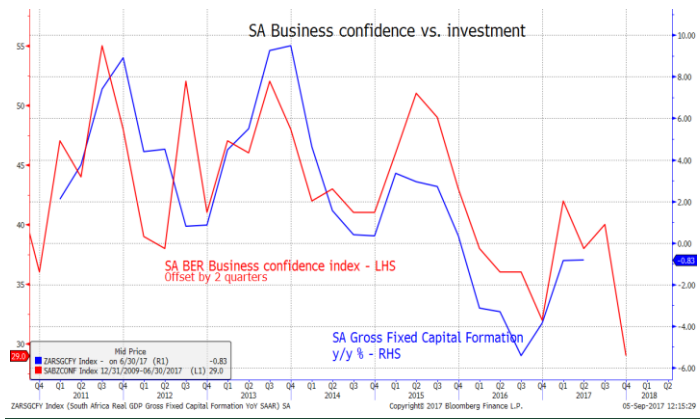

Synopsis: The market is increasingly pricing in some form of normalisation to begin in early 2018. As a result we are likely to see some form of balance sheet normalisation probably announced later in the year for implementation in 2018. Moreover, the ECB is starting to believe that core inflation will indeed react higher, hence the likelihood of some form of tightening can be expected within the next 12 to 18 months.

SA

- SA's GDP growth rose off a very low base in Q2, by 2.5% q/q SAAR, from -0.6% previously. This was better than forecasts of 2.3% growth. The annualised print also rebounded off the low base, rising 1.1% y/y, from 1% in Q1, better than consensus of 0.5%.
- Positive drivers of growth in Q2 were agriculture, finance and real estate and mining and quarrying. These industries contributed a cumulative 1.5% to the quarterly growth rate. All sectors rebounded and made positive contributions to the headline growth rate, apart from government spending and construction which remained unchanged and negative.
- On the expenditure side, GDE rose 2.4% q/q, from -0.7% in Q1 and the rebound was due to sharp increases in household final consumption expenditure, and exports (providing a cumulative 3% towards the q/q growth rate). Lower inflation possibly resulted in an uptick in consumption activity, however bear in mind that a bulk of household spending was concentrated in non-discretionary essential items like food and clothing. Both exports and imports rebounded strongly in Q2, with exports driven by vehicles and metals, while imports were driven by machinery and equipment. On the other hand, gross fixed capital formation contracted by 2.6% q/q, essentially undoing the progress made over the previous two quarters as confidence remains subdued, stifling investment activity.

Synopsis: The trend in GDP growth still remains subdued, with 0.6% full year growth forecast for 2017, with downside risks attached. The fact that most of the service industries and the financial sector did rebound in Q2, and the primary industries remain supportive of growth in the near term, does indicate that the current slow recovery will likely persist over the medium term. Growth is expected to pick up pace in 2018 and 2019, at a projected 1.3% and 1.9% respectively. Inflation will likely remain below 6% over the next 12 to 18 months and this indicates that the current environment is conducive to two more rate cuts of 25 bps by 1H18, barring a flare up in political risks and a sharp depreciation in the rand exchange rate.
