- The final session of the week saw the rand open in the high 17.30s. The local unit managed to trade marginally firmer initially, but these gains were limited to a best level of 17.1570. It failed to consolidate the gains and thereafter traded weaker, to end the week trading at 17.4850. In the overnight sessions, the rand traded steadily weaker as uncertainty prevailed. As the US Congress failed to agree on an aid plan, the local unit traded to a high of 17.7400, where it currently trades. The EURZAR is trading at 19.0490 and the GBPZAR is trading at 20.6760.
- The international markets continued to struggle relative to the USD, with the EURUSD trading down to a low of 1.0658 on Friday; this morning, it is currently trading at 1.0740, where it closed on Friday. The GBPUSD is trading at 1.1660 after touching a low of 1.1413 late last week. Gold is trading at 1,492.50, marginally firmer than the same time on Friday.
- Data releases scheduled for today: no local releases, but the president will be updating the nation on the responses to COVID-19; from Europe, we have consumer confidence for the zone; no scheduled releases from the US.
- The rand has remained on the back foot along with its emerging-market peers. Focus will be on the president's address today. Moody's is scheduled to make its announcement this week, although the significance of this has diminished.
- Possible trading range for the rand today: 17.4000 to 18.2000

- Oil dropped toward the lowest level since 2003 as prospects for a deal between OPEC and Texas to limit production appeared to fade, while a U.S. coronavirus rescue package ran into political delays. Futures fell around 4% to near $26 a barrel.
- Gold dropped again as investors buckled in for yet another volatile week of trading. Spot gold retreated 0.2% at $1,495.99 an ounce.
- Among the other main precious metals, silver lost 0.2% and palladium fell 1.2%, while platinum advanced. Base-metal prices fall sharply in Asia morning trade as concerns over the global coronavirus pandemic show little signs of easing. 3m LME copper is off 6.5% at $4,479 a metric ton, while tin falls 6.5% to $13,050 a ton.

South Africa

- Top40 +6%; we had a relief rally, led by CPI +42%, which recovered most of Thursday's drop on the back of wild volatility around massive strikes in open options in the market. PGM and gold names (SSW +17%, AMS +16%, GFI +13%) also recovered on better commodity prices. Despite a small bounce in oil on the back of the US potentially wading in the Saudi/Russia oil saga, Sasol -10% took another leg down as investors doubted the success of USD10bn worth of asset sales to avoid a rights issue given the current economic backdrop. MTN -9.3%; cutting data prices after the Competition Commission's verdict; this was expected, and the move lower was driven mainly by the devaluation of the naira. Investors are worried that companies with cash in Nigeria will battle with remittance.

UK/Europe

- European equities climbed, on track for their biggest two-day advance since 2008, on investor relief about unprecedented stimulus measures to ease the economic fallout of the coronavirus pandemic. The Stoxx 600 Index rose 4.5% as of 9:28 a.m. London time, marking its first advance since the sell-off's lowest intraday point on 16 March to 12%. The benchmark is heading for its first weekly advance since mid-February. Friday saw a comeback for some of Europe's hardest-hit sectors, with travel stocks up more than 8%, poised for their best day since October 2008.

USA

- US stocks gave up gains, Treasuries rose and the USD halted its rally as investors assessed unprecedented government measures to shield jobs and economies from the coronavirus pandemic. Consumer companies led the slump in the S&P 500 as New York and London announced new restrictions meant to slow the disease's spread. Tech stocks performed best as bottom feeders sought bargains. Gains in Asia and Europe cut the weekly drop for stocks worldwide to just under 10%. The 10-year Treasury yield headed for its lowest closing level since Monday. The USD weakened after vaulting more than 8% in the previous eight sessions.

Asia

- Asian stocks and US equity futures tumbled after a surge in the global death toll from the coronavirus and a failure so far by Congress to agree on an aid plan. Treasury yields retreated. S&P 500 futures dropped 5% and hit limit down, while European contracts fell more than 6% as leaders scrambled to enforce more restrictions on people's movements. Stocks in Australia, South Korea and Hong Kong also slumped. Emerging-market currencies tumbled, led by the won and the rupiah, while the USD slipped against the yen and euro. As investors attempt to assess the severity of the upcoming downturn, Federal Reserve Bank of St Louis President James Bullard predicted the US unemployment rate may hit 30% in the second quarter because of shutdowns to combat the virus.
