- The final session of the month saw the rand trading in the high 17.40s at the local open. Markets traded cautiously ahead of the weekend and a scheduled briefing by President Trump, which saw the local unit trade steadily weaker to reach a high of 17.6690 on the day. After the time of the local close, the rand managed to post steady gains. This morning, it currently trades at 17.4400, the EURZAR is trading at 19.4140 and the GBPZAR is trading at 21.5870.
- The international markets saw the EURUSD trade around the 1.1100 pivot going into the weekend; this morning, it currently trades at 1.1132, marginally shy of the recent highs. The GBPUSD is currently trading at 1.2376 this morning, also firmer than the close last week. Gold has resumed its upward trajectory as global tensions have escalated and investors seek traditional safe havens; this morning, it is currently trading at 1,742.50, USD24 firmer from the same time on Friday.
- Data releases scheduled for today: locally, we have the PMI; from Europe and the UK, we have manufacturing PMI releases; and from the US, we have the Markit manufacturing PMI and manufacturing ISM.
- On Friday, markets traded cautiously ahead of the scheduled briefing by President Trump. As usual, despite the tone, it lacked meaningful substance, and as a result, the USD lost ground across the board. Brexit talks continue as the deadline creeps ever closer. In the US, widespread demonstrations continue to dominate the headlines, and from China, the PMI release is above expectations, indicating an expansion in the economy.
- Possible trading range for the rand today: 17.2500 to 17.7500

Nedbank CIB Market Commentary | CIBMarketComm@Nedbank.co.za | +27 11 537 4091 | +27 11 535 4038

- Oil steadied after a fifth weekly gain as investors weighed the demand threats from unrest in the U.S. and deteriorating relations between Washington and Beijing against signs that OPEC+ may extend supply cuts. WTI for July delivery declined 0.4% to $35.36 a barrel.
- Gold rose as violent protests in cities across the U.S. stoke concerns about reaccelerating infection rates and a damping of the economic recovery. Spot gold +0.3% to $1,736.20/oz after +0.7% Friday. Silver +1.4%, platinum -0.1%, palladium +0.2%. Base-metal prices climb in early Asian trade, helped by expectations of an uptick in business activities as more regions start to reopen their economies. 3M LME copper contract is up 1.3% at $5,444 a metric ton while the nickel contract is 1.6% higher at $12,515 a ton.

South Africa

- Top40 -1.89%; all the day's action centred on the MSCI rebalance as SA gets down-weighted and a few names are deleted from the index. MSCI reminder: deleted names are RDF -6%, FFA -3.39%, TFG -10%, LBH -5.73% and INL -11%; upweights are AEL +x%; DRD +5%; MTM; PSG for small-cap index. Resi -0.16% held up well, along with the gold miners, with the index up 0.85%; naturally saw profit taking in plat index -3% given prev. day's move. Volume picked up on the day, with R24.5bn in value traded in the closing auction alone, above a normal day's average of about R19bn.

UK/Europe

- European equities retreated, paring a gain for the month, as grim corporate news, disappointing US data and souring US-China relations weighed on investor sentiment. The Stoxx 600 was down 1.4%, with travel and leisure, banks and automotive the biggest declining sectors. That trimmed the rise in May to about 3%, marking its second monthly advance from a low in March.

USA

- US equities advanced following a press conference in which President Trump stopped short of implementing drastic economic restrictions against China. S&P 500 up 0.5%. Dow down 0.1%. Nasdaq gained 1.3%. Russell 2000 lost 0.5%. Seven of the 11 main S&P sectors closed higher. Healthcare up 1.3%. Financials down 1.2%.

Asia

- AsiaPac is higher, with Hong Kong and China in the lead; commodities are firmer, and although we had some sizeable swings, the rand is back around 17.44. Tencent is up a notable 4%, which should see NPN/PRX higher – keep an eye on PRX, which missed accelerated inclusion in the STOXX 50.
