- Oil prices fell after a surprise climb in U.S. crude stockpiles added to concerns about a global supply glut as a spike in global Covid-19 cases fuels demand fears and production returns in Libya.
- All precious metals edged up, as did base metals, with the exception of aluminium, propped up by a softer dollar and increasing hopes for a new U.S. coronavirus relief package ahead of the November elections.

The Stoxx Europe 600 Index slipped 0.4%, swinging between gains and losses throughout the session. Technology (-1.2%) stocks tumbled, as the US Department of Justice filed an antitrust lawsuit against Alphabet's Google. The S&P 500 bounced back from Monday's sell-off as House Speaker Nancy Pelosi continued to negotiate with the White House on a deal near USD2tn. The Republican-controlled Senate continued to signal it favoured a bill about one quarter that size. Both houses of Congress need to approve any legislation. Stocks got a boost when Federal Reserve Bank of Chicago President Charles Evans said he is "somewhat optimistic" about a 2021 economic recovery. Futures on the Nasdaq 100 turned lower after the cash market closed when both Netflix Inc. and Texas Instruments Inc. reported results. Tech shares mostly shook off the US Justice Department's decision to sue Google for allegedly abusing its power.

Asia

Shares climbed in Japan, Hong Kong and South Korea and fluctuated in Australia. S&P 500 contracts edged higher after House Speaker Nancy Pelosi said she remains hopeful of a deal before the election. The gauge bounced back from Monday's sell-off on Tuesday. The yuan climbed to the strongest since July 2018 and copper hit its highest in more than two years.
