- Yesterday, the rand was trading in the mid-16.30s at the time of the local open. The rand savoured another resilient performance, posting steady gains throughout as panicky USD longs cut positions, to reach a best level of 16.2000 on the day, closing at 16.2250. The overnight sessions were exceptionally subdued. The rand is trading at 16.2300 this morning; the major rand crosses also posted gains. The EURZAR is currently trading at 19.1505 and the GBPZAR at 21.1920.
- On the international front, the major currency pairs relinquished some of their recent gains. The EURUSD is trading weaker from a high of 1.1866 down to the current levels at 1.1802, having tested marginally below these levels, albeit briefly. The GBPUSD is also drifting lower, having opened yesterday at 1.3140. It closed at 1.3092 this morning and is currently trading at 1.3058. Gold also traded with a weaker bias as risk assets traded firmer. It currently trades at 1,905.30 this morning, which is some USD10 off from the same time yesterday.
- Data releases scheduled for today: no local releases; from Europe, we have manufacturing services PMI releases for France, Germany and the zone; from the UK, we have retail sales and manufacturing and services PMI releases; and from the US, we have various PMI releases.
- While the global focus remains on the continuing stimulus talks in the US, the rand has so far posted steady gains over the course of the week. The short-term technical indicators suggest the possibility of an attempt on the 16.000 level at some point, although there is likely to be some position squaring going into the weekend.
- Possible trading range for the rand today: 16.0000 to 16.5000

- Oil headed for a slight weekly decline as fresh optimism that a U.S. stimulus deal is imminent was overshadowed by the threat a resurgent coronavirus poses to energy demand in Europe and the U.S. Futures edged higher toward $41 a barrel after gaining 1.5% on Thursday.
- Gold prices dipped, weighed by a stronger dollar. Spot gold fell 0.1% to $1,902.57 per ounce after slipping more than 1% in the previous session.
- Silver fell 0.8% to $24.56 per ounce, while platinum dropped 0.4% to $880.94 and palladium rose 0.3% to $2,379.50.
- Base metals slip in early Asian trade as the dollar strengthens. 3M LME copper contract is down 0.1% at $6,917 a metric ton after hitting its highest levels in nearly two and half years overnight on strong China demand. The 3M LME nickel contract is down 0.3% at $15,775 a ton.
