- The final session of the week saw the rand trading in the low 14,40s at the time of the local open. The rand opened the session close to the highs of the day. Although the markets were cautious ahead of the US NFP data, the local unit posted steady gains for much of the session, reaching a best level around the 14,2500 mark. As was to be expected, there was some price gyration around the aforementioned data. The local session ended the week with the rand trading at 14,3025. Activity in the overnight sessions has been limited, and this morning, the rand is currently trading at 14,3325, the EURZAR is trading at 17,0125 and the GBPZAR is currently at 19,8535.
- The international markets saw the major currency pairs also post incremental gains relative to the USD. The EURUSD reached a high of 1,1908, although it has drifted back to the current levels around 1,1870 since then, largely unchanged from the open on Friday. The GBPUSD is currently trading at 1,3850, having traded to a high of 1,3890 in the final session of last week. Gold ended last week at 1 831,25; this morning, it is currently trading at 1 825,75.
- The much anticipated US NFP data disappointed the markets after a softer-than-expected increase of 235 000, against a consensus expectation around 735 000. Although average hourly earnings did beat expectations, this dataset failed to provide the markets with absolute clarity regarding the next action from the Fed. The rand has consolidated near its recent lows; the short-term technical trend remains intact for a move towards the 14,20 level.
- Possible trading range for the rand today: 14,1500 to 14,5500

South Africa

- Top40 -0,5%. A softer end to the week, albeit in thin volume, with most eagerly awaiting the US data that showed US NFP data missed by quite some margin. Gold stocks bounced off their lows after the data on the back of the bullion rallying – GFI +3,2% and ANG +2,7%. The rest of the sectors struggled to gain any traction, with banks down 0,8% and retailers -2% after TRU's numbers...stock closed down 12%. Turnover was low at R16,9bn. Biggest crosses: 2.7m NTC at 1 702, 666k TRU at 5 900, 3.5m FSR at 6 175, 287k ANH at 873,05, 300k IMP, 1m SSW at 5 650.

UK/Europe

- European stocks extended their decline amid investor concerns that the economic recovery is slowing after the US jobs report for August missed estimates. The Stoxx Europe 600 Index fell 0,8% by 2:31 p.m. in London, down the most in two weeks, with travel and leisure, consumer and technology stocks declining the most. Investors are getting more worried about the pace of global growth rebound after US hiring downshifted abruptly in August with the smallest jobs gain in seven months. Today's report adds to the market's concerns about the spread of the delta variant, higher inflation and stretched equity valuations.

USA

- The S&P 500 closed little changed on Friday, after much-weaker-than-expected US jobs data had traders weighing concern about the economic recovery against receding bets on a faster taper by the Federal Reserve. Stocks struggled for traction ahead of a three-day weekend, with trading volume for the stock gauge approximately 20% below its 30-day average. Six of the 11 major industry groups fell, with the utilities and materials sectors leading losses, while information technology advanced. The tech-heavy Nasdaq 100 index gained 0,3%, while the blue-chip Dow Jones Industrial Average fell 0,2%. The August employment report, which showed the smallest jobs gain in seven months, fuelled concern about the impact of the delta variant on the economic recovery, while also supporting the view that the Fed may wait for further data before beginning to scale back stimulus measures. Non-farm payrolls climbed by 235 000 last month versus a median estimate of 733 000, while the unemployment rate dropped by 20 basis points to 5,2% and average wages rose more than expected.

Asia

- Asian stocks rose, with the regional benchmark poised to close at a two-month high, as Japanese equities lifted sentiment on the prospect of better economic and pandemic policies. The MSCI Asia Pacific Index climbed as much as 0,7% as communication services and technology shares led the advance. Japan's Nikkei 225 gauge was among top-performing benchmarks, while the TOPIX extended gains from a more than 30-year high after Japan's prime minister's exit was announced Friday.
