SNIPPETS

Currencies	The rand loses ground as it fails to extend its recent gains or consolidate beyond the 14,5000 level; this morning, it is firmly on the back foot
Commodities	Brent crude oil is dipping below USD84,50 per barrel; gold is moving towards USD1 790 per ounce
Equities	US markets closed at an all-time high but the mood soured after the close when Snap reported a tempered outlook but also highlighted that companies were not advertising products that they were not able to sell, given the ongoing supply-chain bottlenecks

- On Thursday, the rand opened the local session trading at 14,4400. The improved levels in the rand proved attractive to USD buyers again and the local unit traded weaker throughout the session to end the day around the 14,6000 level. In the overnight session, the rand traded to a high of 14,6900. This morning, it drifted back from those highs and is currently trading at 14,6475. The EURZAR is currently trading at 17,0325 and the GBPZAR at 20,2120.
- On the international front, the major currency pairs, although continuing to trade within limited ranges, traded with a marginally weaker bias. The EURUSD is currently trading at 1.1627, which is unchanged from the same time yesterday. The GBPUSD is also effectively unchanged from yesterday and is currently trading at 1,3798. Gold also remained unchanged from the same time yesterday at 1 786,50 this morning.
- Data releases scheduled for today: there are no local releases; from Europe, we have the manufacturing and services PMI releases for the major member states and the zone; from the UK, we have the retail sales and manufacturing and services PMI releases; and from the US, we have the PMI release.
- After another robust performance in the previous session, the rand yesterday relinquished the significant majority of the week's gains, trading marginally short of the 14,7000 level last night.
- Possible trading range for the rand today: 14,4500 to 14,9500

- Benchmark crude oil prices are better offered with Brent crude oil dipping below USD84,50 per barrel. Gold is better bid and moving towards USD1 790 per ounce, while PGMs are also better bid with platinum moving above USD1 055 per ounce and palladium recovering some of its previous session losses to mark a touch above USD2 040 per ounce.

South Africa

- Top40 -1,35%; it was not the prettiest of days on the local bourse as most major indices traded in the red led by resources. Resi10 -2,80%; commodity prices got hammered bar nickel +4,55%; palladium -3,2%, copper -3,0%; SOL -4,70% (1Q prod U/P). ZAR -1,18% did not do SA Inc. any favours; Fini15 -1,35%, SAPY -0,63%; Indi25 -0,06% resilient as rand hedges do their job. KIO -3,77%; despite a decent sales update as rail bottlenecks and SA port issues limited shipments and restricted sales. AMS -3,06%; production nrs in line, on track to meet full-year guid; CLS -2,73%, DHEPS rose 8,8%, lower end of the guided range. Worth noting: US Initial Jobless Claims broadly in line at 290k vs 297k; Leading Index below at 0,2% vs 0,4%; Existing Homes Sales beat. Turnover improved to R21bn, with c.R7bn odd going through in the closing auction due to a rebalance; IMP 8% market share top.

UK/Europe

- European stocks traded little changed as some earnings reports disappointed, adding to investor unease about inflation and supply constraints. The Stoxx Europe 600 Index was up less than 0,1% by 3:28pm in London, with basic resources and industrials leading the decline, while automakers outperformed. ABB Ltd slumped after stating that margins are set to decline on rising cost of raw materials, while Anglo American Plc fell, as it expects production to be at the lower end of its guidance range. SAP SE retreated after cautious management comments on the margin outlook. Shares in the region are witnessing a strong month, with the main regional benchmark only about 1% away from its August record high. Earnings are in focus as investors consider whether profit growth can continue, despite China, inflation, supply disruptions and rising bond yield risks.

USA

- US stocks rose to the first all-time high since 2 September, powered by a spate of strong corporate results and positive news on the fight against the virus. A late-session rally lifted the S&P 500 0,3% for a seventh straight gain, the longest streak since July. Shares in stocks that benefit from a strong economy rallied after better-than-expected earnings at Tesla Inc., Pool Corp. and Tractor Supply Co. The mood soured after the cash session when Snap Inc. plunged more than 25% after reporting results that missed estimates. The owner of Snapchat app warned that global supply-chain issues are discouraging advertisers from trying to reach new customers. Other social media stocks slumped in afterhours, with Facebook Inc. and Twitter Inc. each down 6%. Alphabet Inc. slid almost 3%. The gains during regular trading ended the longest drought without a record close since November 2020. The S&P 500 has climbed 5% since JPMorgan Chase & Co. kicked off the reporting season, following a month of losses. The steady rise in stocks sent the Cboe Volatility Index to its lowest close since before the pandemic.

Asia

- Asian stocks rose on Friday and the USD slipped as a report that China Evergrande Group pulled back from the brink of default aided sentiment. Australia's dollar paced gains in risk-sensitive currencies. Equities advanced in Japan and Hong Kong, while property shares in China extended a rally. Local media said Evergrande paid a USD bond coupon before a weekend deadline. China high-yield USD bonds climbed. The report eased some of the concerns about possible contagion from any default by the firm.
